

Mr. ZHU Qiang is the deputy manager of Nuclear Power Department of CNNC, and also the general manager of Latin America office of CNNC. He has been responsible for CNNC's international nuclear power business development for many years.

ZHU Qiang previously held the position of Chief Representative of MCC in Brazil, which is also a large scale state owned enterprise and is one of TOP 500 companies all over the world. Through nearly 14 years' continuous efforts, he has accumulated diverse experience in oversea business development and project management in nuclear power, renewable energy, mining and resources, infrastructure, etc.

Zhu Qiang holds a doctorate in Economics, and a Master degree of Business Administration from Tsinghua University, as well as a bachelor of Thermal Energy and Power Engineering from University of Science and Technology Beijing ("USTB").